Interested in what artists were doing more than 3000 years ago? Want to learn about the real-life settings for the stories of the Minotaur and the Trojan War?

Grab the bull by the horns (!) and register this Spring for ARTH 301: Aegean Art and Archaeology! (Prof. Egan; T/Th 9:30-10:45am)

This course will introduce you to the artifacts and monuments of Bronze Age Greece (ca. 3000-1000 BCE) through study of excavations on Crete, the Aegean islands, and the Greek mainland. We will explore the range of artistic choices made by some of the world’s earliest craftsmen and investigate how they connect to social, political, and religious issues. In this course, you will not only learn to think critically about ancient art and architecture, but will see how works from deep antiquity have a direct impact on how we view and interact with our modern visual environment.
