Seventeenth-Century Art in the Netherlands
ARTH 335 (Summer I 2021, June 1–July 9)
Prerecorded lectures released Monday & Wednesday with optional section on Friday
11:00–12:30 pm
Alyssa Hughes (she/her)
amh909@umd.edu

Want to learn more about iconic artists like Rembrandt, Rubens, or Vermeer? Interested in learning more about Netherlandish culture? Come explore the world of seventeenth-century Netherlandish art this summer in ARTH 355. This course surveys art, architecture, and sculpture created in the Northern and Southern Netherlands during one of the most iconic ages in history. Learn more about the man behind the Girl with the Pearl Earring, and discover the talents of artists you’ve never seen before. We will consider a diverse range of artistic genres and topics from Dutch Landscape to Still Life painting to the contributions of women artists and many more.

Willem Claesz. Heda, Still Life with a Gilt Cup, 1635. Oil on panel. Amsterdam, Rijksmuseum